Angela Tirrell

Samarkand 2011

Artist: Angela Tirrell, fine painter and muralist

I'm a painter who has created figurative and abstract pieces in public and private spaces across the United States. My drive to create works of artistic integrity is equalled by a love of architecture, and of the complexity of the human condition.

I have always believed art is the most compelling reflection of all reality, can address the most horrific aspects or fantastically joyful experiences of life on earth — in a way that provokes interest and reflection.

I like my role of reflector of life's vicissitudes — and increasingly, I am interested in serving as an interpreter to others to create a conduit for communication and rapprochement — this is why I paint.
